

Midwest Study Group of the North American Kant Society

DePaul University, Richardson Library, 2350 N. Kenmore, Room 300

Friday, October 18th, 2019

10:00-10:15: welcome and coffee

10:15-11:15 Jessica Tizzard (Connecticut), "Exploring Moral Weakness through Imperfect Duties"

11:15-12:15 Larissa Berger (Siegen), "Kant's Moral Ideal of Beauty"

12:15-1:45 Lunch break

1:45-2:45 Michael Au-Mullaney (Fordham), "Immediately! The Nature of Kantian Intuition and the Intuitive Understanding"

2:45-3:45 Nicholas Dunn (McGill), "Subsuming 'Determining' under 'Reflecting': Kant's Power of Judgment, Reconsidered"
Markus Herz Prize winner

3:45-4:15 coffee break

4:15-6:00 Keynote Lecture
Angelica Nuzzo (Graduate Center and Brooklyn College, CUNY)
"Verum et factum idem": Kant's Constructivism of the Ideal in the Practical Philosophy"

Saturday, October 19th, 2019

10:00-11:00 Güçsal Pular (DePaul), "Was Kant Fair to Reid? On the Double Movement of Kantian Critique"

11:00-12:00 Reed Winegar (Fordham), "Kant's Three Conceptions of Infinite Space"

12:00-1:30 Lunch break

1:30-2:30 Olga Lenczewska (Stanford), "Becoming Pluralists: Kant on the Normative Aspects and Constraints of Pluralistic Thinking"

2:30-3:30 Daniel Pepe (DePaul), "Kant's Theory of History: The Idea of Universal History in the Critical Philosophy"

3:30-3:45 coffee break

3:45-4:45 Adam Jurkiewicz (Catholic University), "The Role of Bodily Feeling in Kant's Account of Visual Perception"